ACE National Survey on Artificial Intelligence and Arthritis Care

Artificial intelligence – often called AI – is becoming part of everyday life – in the apps we use, the websites we visit, and even in how healthcare is delivered.

To help Arthritis Consumer Experts (ACE) better understand what people living with arthritis and their caregivers think about AI, we are launching a National Survey on Artificial Intelligence and Arthritis Care. We want to find out how familiar you are with it, how comfortable you feel using it, and what kinds of tools or information might help you.

The Survey closes on July 13. Your answers will help ACE make sure that patient voices are included as AI becomes a bigger part of arthritis care in Canada.
